

KORA Organics Blog Article

Mookaite Jasper: a gift from the Dreamtime

2012-06-13 06:06:56 Special Guest

Mookaite Jasper is found only in Western Australia.

A very beautiful stone that comes in a spectrum of colours, from white to almost black, from pink to purple, from peach to ochre. A metamorphosed sedimentary stone formed from the fossilised microscopic life of our ancient shallow seas. This stone captures the essence of life pre -dating the dinosaurs and is embraced by Indigenous Australian for its healing properties.

Physically a hard and brittle stone, yet it represents gentleness and nurturing for both mind and body. Mookaite is a perfect choice for those that are the caregivers in our society and our family. It is helpful to those that are busy caring for others, but often forget to care for themselves.

It can support in times of stress, allow us to better understand and empathise with others.

It is a protective stone that helps shield us from negative situations or people and to be positive and able to navigate our way through stressful dramas.

Grounding and balancing it also is uplifting and inspiring, a very special combination.

What better stone for a mother or a therapist to have!

Mookaite Jasper is most often available as polished pebbles, beautiful cabochons for jewellery, or sometimes in rare and uniquely crafted massage stones.

If you get a chance to hold a piece of Mookaite Jasper, it may be just what you have been searching for.

By Brett Smith,

Craftsman of Stone Eagle Handcrafted Massage Stones and owner of Port Douglas Natural Therapies Centre and Spa.

www.stone-eagle.com and www.pdspa.com.au